Goat: Don't Butt In!

Mrs. Gonczy was singing a rather lengthy song to our class. Our music teacher had given us strict instructions not to interrupt her under any circumstances. It was not one of my habits to interrupt anybody, although I knew why we were all reminded in this case. Mrs. Gonczy was a very nervous woman, and whispers and giggles from children bothered her---especially when she was singing a song.

I was listening intently when I suddenly noticed a long, multilegged insect begin its crawl onto Mrs. Gonczy's shoe. Soon it would be on her leg. I was about to raise my hand when I remembered the teacher's unmistakable instructions...
